Kerry White - Principal, Landscape Architect

Urban Play Studio was founded to create exceptional outdoor play spaces to enhance the quality of people's lives. Our focus is healthy communities and our passion is play! We design spaces for people of all ages and abilities - spaces where people live, work, and play. Whether it's social gathering spaces for adults, adventure play for children, or learning landscapes for students, our belief is that well-designed public spaces contribute to healthier, happier communities.

Kerry White has over seventeen years of design and project management experience. Her collaborative design efforts include a collection of public projects, varying in size, type, and style. From school playgrounds and educational campuses, to neighborhood parks and regional athletic facilities, her creativity and technical competence result in unique, fun, safe, and appropriate places for play and gathering. Incorporating strong communication skills into her philosophy, Kerry facilitates the consensus and coming together of neighbors, user groups, agency staff, and design teams, so all are working toward common project goals. Her extensive cost estimation and construction documentation experience ensure projects are on time and on budget. Equally important, her project designs incorporate solutions that are environmentally sensitive and reflect a sense of place. Kerry has the expertise to take concepts and ideas to a beautifully built solution.
